

Survey Data Policy

for surveys conducted in the research project SharKI version of October 17, 2022

In the SharKI project we develop our unique in-house shared task platform TIRA further to allow for the AI-supported setup, conduct and assessment of shared tasks for their use in teaching. Exclusively for this purpose of research personal data shall be processed by the data-collecting body¹.

We do not share any personal data with third parties.

All personal data will be deleted in a data-protection-compliant manner after the end of the project.

Participation in the project is voluntary. There is no effect of not participating. At any time you can deny informally and in writing the further use of your data with effect for the future.

Survey participants have the right to contact the data-collecting body¹, the data-protection supervisor of Leipzig University² or the corresponding supervisory authority³ at any time.

¹ data-collecting body:

Leipzig University, Computer Science Institute, TEMIR

Augustusplatz 10

04109 Leipzig, GERMANY

project leader: Martin Potthast (martin.potthast@uni-leipzig.de) assistant: Petra Gamrath (pgamrath@informatik.uni-leipzig.de, +49 (0)341 – 97 32 230)

² data-protection supervisor of Leipzig University:

Thomas Braatz (current contact data:

<https://www.uni-leipzig.de/universitaet/struktur/beauftragte-und-interessensvertretungen>)

³ competent supervisory authority:

Saechsische Datenschutzbeauftragte (current contact data:

<https://www.saechsdsb.de/kontakt>)